Treasure hunters set to coin it with Roman haul

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

AS the credit crunch hits pensioners across the country one pair have hit the jackpot by finding buried treasure.

The finders of a hoard of thousands of Roman coins agree with the words inscribed on them; 'happy times are here again'.

The collection of bronze coins, which may be worth hundreds of thousands in sterling, were discovered in a field north of Newport Pagnell and have now been declared as treasure.

It was discovered by a pair of experienced metal detectorists on ploughed farmland on December 1, 2006.

An investigation into the find was concluded by the Milton Keynes Coroner yesterday.

The court heard that pensioners Dave Phillips, from Dunstable, and Barrie Plasom, from Aspley Guise, were searching together using metal detectors with permission from the land owner.

The pair, who have been detecting together for three years, were on opposite sides of a field when Mr Plasom 'struck gold'.

Mr Phillips, who has been involved in nine previous significant finds, said: "Barrie found the first six stuck together and rang me on my mobile.

"Ten minutes later he called again and said he had 22 now.

"I said hang on and ran across the field."

They continued to dig a hole three feet deep and found more than 1,400 bronze coins and pieces of pottery.

"It was about 5.30pm at this time of year so it was pitch black and we couldn't see a thing," added Mr Phillips.

"We laid on our bellies and kept pulling out coins.

"It is difficult to explain how you feel when you are finding coins left, right and centre.

"We are a couple of old men and we suddenly became like young men.

"For me it is just finding the history, that is what I love."

Barrie Plasom and Dave Phillips with, right, some of their haul of Roman coins

The hoard has since been identified by the British Museum as dating from the 4th century AD.

Mr Phillips believes some could fetch up to £500 each and the collection may be worth hundreds of thousands of pounds in total.

The coins are inscribed with the heads of various Roman emperors and leaders and some with words translated as 'Happy times are here again', which date from around 348AD and was meant to reassure Roman citizenry of their safety against barbarian raids.

It is believed the hoard was deposited on a Roman rubbish pit.

The pair, who have both been metal detecting for 30 years, declared their find to Bedford Museum, though later realised the site was 250 yards inside the Buckinghamshire border.

An investigation by the coroner was called for as the Buckinghamshire County Museum, in Aylesbury, wants to acquire it.

Coroner Rodney Corner declared the hoard and its ceramic holder as treasure under the Treasure Act 1996.

The collection will now be valued by a committee of experts and the museum will then decide if it can afford to buy it.

Rural MK: View looking from Newport Pagnell by-pass towards Central Milton Keynes

Homes an issue in rural strategy

A PICTURE of the city's rural communities hit by dwindling local services, lack of transport and hidden deprivation has been painted in a new report.

For the first time, a rural strategy – which Milton Keynes Council leader Cllr Isobel McCall hoped would be adopted last night – has been developed.

Almost 70 per cent of Milton Keynes is rural, and 17 per cent of the city's population lives in these areas.

The 2008-2012 rural strategy says that affordability of housing is a big problem, with the county being the fourth most expensive place to buy a house in Britain.

In Milton Keynes, since 1997, 1,188 dwellings in rural areas were completed and only 71 of these were considered affordable.

It adds: 'Many villages have lost their retail outlets – often the focus of a vibrant community', and some have poor access to shops post offices, banks, GPs and secondary schools.

Sherington is in the worst 10 per cent nationally in terms of housing and access to services, and parts of Danesborough and Hanslope are also poor.

The general standard of health is good and Milton Keynes's rural population are expected to live almost two years longer than their urban counterparts.

But despite these high living standards and above-average income, the 'general wealthy make-up of the areas means that deprivation and inequality are concealed'.

In fact deprivation statistics show that more than a third of rural people in the county are income deprived, with a significant number of adults with limiting long-term illnesses and no qualifications.

And, it says, the community cohesion once associated with village life is being eroded by an increase in commuting and reliance on cars.

Areas once prospering from their farmland have suffered a decline.

As a result, the Buckinghamshire Rural Affairs Group (BRAG) is set to improve rural areas 'in the midst of great change'.

Cllr Isobel McCall said: "We don't have a rural policy as such. We now have a policy – and it mainly deals with people who find it difficult to get to public services.

"People think of Milton Keynes as a new city with the older towns of Wolverton and Bletchley. They forget we've a very large rural hinterland where residents have some very real issues.

"Next month we will be working on a regeneration strategy dealing with deprivation in the urban areas. But it's important to remember that there is deprivation in rural areas.

"Although there may not be poverty, there are still issues like access to services."

Hanged bank clerk left 'bad luck' note

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A FORMER bank clerk who worked for a major financial services company in London wrote about the pressure of the economic downturn in his suicide note.

Roger Hunt hanged himself on July 27 at his home in Hadley Place, Bradwell Common, leaving behind a detailed hand written note to his family.

At an inquest on Wednesday, Milton Keynes' Coroner, Rodney Corner, read the tragic note to Mr Hunt's brother, Godfrey, and mother, Gertrude.

'Dear All,' the 48-year-old wrote, 'Thanks for all your love.

'I have had some desperately bad luck; a car crash that was not my fault... the onset of diabetes... an economic downturn that has left me penniless. Please don't be sad'.

Mr Hunt worked at Northern Trust in Canary Wharf, but left in 2007 after 10 years service for the company.

The inquest heard evidence that he found it strenuous commuting from Milton Keynes and decided to leave the job voluntarily, taking a six-month break to care for his ill mother.

But he became worried about returning to the industry and took a new role at Milton Keynes County Court as an insolvency clerk.

Giving evidence, Mr Hunt's brother, said: "He was anxious because the banking sector was starting to go downhill.

"He did have periods when he was very down but he was normally a very cheerful character."

Mr Hunt had been living alone with two pet cats.

His boss, County Court manager Carol Marriott, told the inquest that he was 'a perfect gentlemen and a jolly person'.

However, Mr Hunt's suicide note indicated that he had doubts about his decision to take a lower paid job instead of another offer from an international bank in Cork, Ireland.

'I just can't live with the fact that I made such a bad decision," he wrote. I was left in a low paid job, being pushed around'.

Recording a verdict of suicide, Mr Corner said: "He was in a real low when these notes were written. I think his depression probably needed treatment.

"He had quite a lot of knocks."

A statement from Mr Hunt's family said: 'Roger was a very loved member of the family and will always be sadly missed.

'We have all found his death difficult to come to terms with, but realise that we must endeavour to move on with our own lives, without truly knowing why this happened'.

£1,000 op cost to save shot pet cat

BY ROB GIBSON
rob.gibson@mk-news.co.uk

A PENSIONER is in shock after finding her cat dying at the end of her garden from a gunshot wound.

Margaret Roberts, from Chervil, Beanhill, reported the incident to police after vets confirmed that Lukie had been shot at close range with an air pellet.

The 63-year-old told officers that she last saw Lukie fit and well on Sunday, October 12, before he disappeared.

"I was so worried and I kept going out late looking for him," Margaret said.

"I found him three days later lying at the end of the garden.

"He must have crawled home from wherever he was."

Margaret took Lukie to the vet, thinking that he might have been poisoned.

But when they discovered a wound and a pellet in his stomach, the cat, aged 18 months, was rushed for an operation at MK Veterinary Group Hospital in Walnut Tree.

Margaret said: "I'm fuming. "How could anybody shoot a cat? It's so cruel it's unbelievable - he very nearly died.

"I'm a disabled pensioner so I can't afford to pay the costs.

"The RSPCA has been brilliant but they are inundated with cats at the moment."

Lukie was still recovering yesterday and has been signed over to the RSPCA because Margaret, who had no pet insurance, could not afford vets bills totalling nearly £1,000.

Sergeant Jason Kemp, investigating the incident, said: "This callous act is not only criminal but it is extremely dangerous.

"This could easily have hit a child or someone else causing serious injury.

"I would urge anyone with information about this incident to contact me immediately and would appeal particularly to those people who live on Chervil, Tandra and Neapland in Beanhill to come forward if they know anything about this."

Pensioner Margaret Roberts with her pet cat Lukie

RSPCA inspector David Braybrooke said: "You can't go shooting animals with air rifles.

"It's going to cause suffering and it's illegal. If I find out who is reponsible the RSPCA will prosecute them and the weapon will be confiscated."

■ Anyone with information can contact Sergeant Kemp on 08458 505505 or Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555111.

Inquest opened into Gemma death

Post-mortem: Gemma Sisley

AN inquest has opened into the death of 22-year-old Gemma Sisley, who was found dead at the home of her ex-boyfriend.

Miss Sisley's body was found at the home of Jason Burrows, in Milton Road, Broughton, on October 16, and post-mortem results revealed asphyxia as the cause of death.

At Milton Keynes Coroners' Court on Wednesday her parents, Alison Chamberlain and Andrew Sisley, and brother, Christopher Sisley, listened to a brief summary of the events surrounding her death.

The details can not be published until criminal proceedings have been completed.

A former student of Ousedale School, Gemma Louise Sisley was born in Northampton on August 2, 1986 and lived at Holland Way, Newport Pagnell.

The day after her body was found, Jason Burrows was arrested and charged with murder.

Mr Burrows, 34, was remanded at Aylesbury Magistrates' Court last week.

He will enter his plea at Luton Crown Court on October 31.

A medical report of Miss Sisley's death will be presented at the Coroners' Court in December.

£6m bill for maintaining MK Theatre

LOOKING after Milton Keynes Theatre and Gallery could cost taxpayers an estimated £6million over the next 25 years.

The figure, listed in an agenda for last night's cabinet meeting at Milton Keynes Council (MKC), would cover the 'risk exposure' associated with the maintenance of the building.

Ten years after its birth, the constitution of Milton Keynes Theatre and Gallery Company (MKTGC) is set to undergo a makeover next month.

The final cost is still being discussed and the council will seek further legal and financial advice over the coming weeks, as well as reviewing grant arrangements.

Alternatively, MKC could decide to pass the repairing risk back to MKTGC.

Cabinet member, Cllr Vanessa McPake said: "At this time of change it seems good to support the changes to the constitution of the board and revisit the financial arrangements between Milton Keynes Council and MKTGC, to ensure best value for money to Milton Keynes' taxpayers.

"The theatre and gallery provide an enormous amount to the economy of Milton Keynes and do a tremendous amount of work with local schools, young people's groups and holiday groups."

The proposals detail three payments of £2 million each, from the council's Capital Programme.

Failure by the council to meet its obligation to maintain the theatre could expose it to legal action if there is a loss of business.

The agenda states: "There is a finely judged balance to be made on whether this approach distils down to whether or not we retain the risk of fully maintaining a complex building."

MK LETTERS

Letters to The Editor, MK NEWS, 1 Diamond Court, Fox Milne, Milton Keynes MK15 0DU | letters@mk-news.co.uk

Bravery honoured

SIR – A review of past editions of MK NEWS will show my efforts for a war memorial in CMK.

It was fully supported by all of the relevant agencies such as the Red Cross and the War Memorials Trust.

It would be vey fitting for MK to pursue this and as an alderman and keen supporter, I would be delighted to be involved.

Such memorials do not glorify war. They acknowledge the effort and bravery of those who took part.

Alderman Paul Bartlett
Woodside, Stony Stratford

No respect

SIR – With reverence to your article on respect to referees.

As a past chairman and president of the North Bucks and District Football League, at every meeting that I held with the clubs I appealed to them to get the foul and abusive language curtailed.

I'm quite sure those who are responsible for the abuse would not put up with it themselves. I've seen potential good referees call it a day because of abuse.

Until it is stopped the standard or referees will not improve throughout the game.

I've been involved with grass root football since the end of the 1939-45 war and have seen a great deterioration in the game.

Respect? People of the world today do not know the meaning of the word.

Time to repay the debt we owe Gurkhas

SIR – I could not help but notice that the Lib Dems must have decided that this week's campaigning should focus people's attention on their new-found discovery of the armed forces.

It seems that they are jumping on every passing Bedford four-tonner as well as the usual bandwagons!

Ms Hope did a somewhat interesting leap from the issue of 42 days detention to the plight of our Gurkha soldiers and their fight with this Government that seems ashamed of our military heritage (unless it involves invading middle eastern countries without a plan to extricate themselves afterwards) and who will not allow those Gurkha soldiers who have served this country with such honour and bravery prior to 1997 to hold full British citizenship.

She is right, it is a national scandal.

But let us not be fooled into believing that she is at the vanguard of this particular fight or, indeed, has played any role in it.

It might interest readers to know that Lieutenant Tul Bandahar Pun VC was at first refused the right to settle in the UK and that the Government reversed this decision as a direct consequence of pressure from Mssrs Howe & Co, the solicitors who represent Mr Pun, and the users and supporters of the Army Rumour Service website (www.arrse.co.uk) who campaigned long and hard with members of the Gurkha Regimental Associations to make this Government see the error of its ways.

If Ms Hope had spent enough time to understand Lt Pun's case she would have known that he was granted exceptional leave to remain in the UK and I had the honour of seeing him arrive in the UK on the July 4 last year.

His case is the exception, however, and ministers have much further to go if they are to repay the debt they owe our Gurkha brothers-in-arms.

Keith Fraser
Newport Road, Emberton

Church garden is the place for war memorial

The 'Tin Hat' memorial on North Row in Central Milton Keynes

SIR – Regarding the site of proposed war memorial. The Point sounds good, but transport accessibility not.

The church (or cathedral, should MK be granted city status by her Majesty) is multi-denominational and has a splendid amphitheatre/garden to it's rear.

A definite in my books.

It would not offend anyone of any faith and is bang in the middle of 'suburbia'.

The theatre district has a beautiful sculpture garden temporarily, where better for 'a new start?' - easily accessible too.

The 'Tin Hat' memorial in North Row - tucked away? Is this the one at the back of Lloyds Court?

I thought this was MK's memorial open to all with poppies laid there regular. So much for being tucked away.

It is sad that the proposed 'Sundial' never happened in Midsummer Place (another thought for location?).

I hope that this memorial does take place. I am sure many of the forces groups in MK would be interested but are not being kept in touch.

Mike Barry, splendid lad, being involved in many things over the years in Newport Pagnell and MK. He should know that Newport Pagnell and surrounding 'villages' are not part of MK and request to remain impartial, yet MK deserves a memorial of it's own.

Just come down to NP and see the memorial and plaque, or visit the Legion.

As to type of memorial, I'm not fussed, I prefer traditional and it would look nice in a up-to-date place (it would stand out), however there are several local artists (Sundial Man to name one) that should possibly 'have a go'.

The lady that did the Tree Sculpture in the Theatre District, The person that did the Lloyds Bank Horse, the oriental that did the ones once at MK station, Justin Neale who did the lampposts in Newport Pagnell, the person that did the Whisperers outside MK Library, etc – I could go on

But what about MK College's wonderful pupils?

Site once again – Campbell Park (they never replaced the beacon, perhaps that is why her Maj will not give us city status?) or Fishermead . Both highly inaccessible and also out of the way and open to vandalism and graffiti.

Sign of the times

SIR – I write with respect to the work that is currently being carried out to re-surface Shenley Road in Bletchley.

The council workers have sign-posted that a portion of the road is closed and have also put a diversion sign near Mersey Way in place.

I live in a cul-de-sac beyond the sign. When I became aware that we were getting all sorts of vehicles using our road, thinking that they could cut through (including lorries, coaches, trucks and even buses) I thought that I should investigate the source.

Initially I found that the diversion sign had become flattened by the wind (as it hadn't been secured) so I put it back into place. But, even as I was doing so, I watched dozens of drivers choosing to ignore the sign and drive right into the closed road.

Having found out that we are a cul de sac, some of these drivers have been seen using private driveways to turn around in, which in itself is unacceptable, let alone the log-jam they cause by filling the road.

However, for us to see more than a handful of number nine buses in our road (for each of three days as I write, so not just an occurrence in one day) beggars belief that they have (a) not learned of the diversion in place, or that (b) the council did not alert the bus companies of the road works affecting their routes (the latter of which I cannot believe).

In fact we cannot understand why these buses found themselves in our area at all, as the usual route wouldn't take them even remotely close to us.

I can only guess that most of the drivers that we have seen in our road have chosen to believe that the diversion was 'not for them' and that the road closure ahead was a myth. It's either that or they fancied a mystery tour.

Either way, I say to each and every one of them 'read the signs, it might just be to your benefit and, you never know, it might just save you time, further inconvenience and petrol.

However, what I have felt saying to the bus drivers is unprintable, especially as we have seen so many of them struggling to reverse at the top of our road.

Name and address supplied

Scheme blockers

SIR – Mark Lancaster is absolutely right to highlight the dangers of unemployment (MK NEWS last week).

How then does he reconcile this with the actions of his Conservative colleagues on the council who have BLOCKED the following schemes, worked up over the spring and summer in consultation with the local business community in response to a £ 3/4 million Government grant – in other words at no cost to the MK council tax payer:

- skills training for 350 people who have been unemployed for a year or more, who are under threat of redundancy, young people and/or recent migrants
- support for the Milton Keynes Economic & Learning Partnership
- a grant to the proposed new MK University based on Milton Keynes College
- help for people recently out of prison to find jobs
- funding to support maths & science teacher recruitment
- the regeneration of older parts of the city in Bletchley, Wolverton and Tinkers Bridge/Netherfield.

I would beg the Conservatives to change their minds and allow this money to be released.

Even a few weeks delay at this stage could mean all the difference between a job or not for some people.

Cllr Sam Crooks,
Cabinet member for finance,
Milton Keynes Council

Flag-draped coffin for police constable

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

CITY police have paid tribute to one of their officers after he was found dead in his bedroom.

Officers celebrated the career of PC James Rowantree by draping a Thames Valley Police flag over his coffin at his funeral last Wednesday.

The coffin was also given a motorcycle outrider escort to the funeral while members of the mounted police section provided a guard of honour at the church.

PC Rowantree, 51, died of an apparent overdose on Saturday, October 11.

He was found in his bedroom at home in Ulyett Place, Oldbrook and a bottle of wine was discovered with two tumblers, one containing a white residue.

He was a police officer for nearly thirty years and was due to retire.

He ran the control room at Milton Keynes Police Station.

His adopted son, Ian Collins, said the police service gave him a great tribute at his funeral.

"Two out-riders escorted his coffin from the house down to Simpson Church for the funeral," he said.

Coppers' copper: PC James Rowantree

"As he was from Glasgow they also arranged for him to be escorted to the vehicle by bagpipes.

"At the end a trumpeter played 'The Last Post'."

The family, including his seven brothers and sisters who still live in Scotland, then had a private service at Crownhill Crematorium.

PC Rowantree's son, Andrew, said he was the 'police officer's police officer'.

"They all loved him - one said to me that when he was on duty in the control centre they felt very safe."

Mr Collins added: "He served in the Navy before so was always very regimented. He was strict but he made us the men we are today.

"He was an excellent father, we could not fault him."

An inquest, opened on Thursday, October 16 heard that he was in the process of separating from his wife, Caroline.

He was due to appear in court on Monday, October 13 as a non molestation and occupancy order had been requested by his wife.

A note left in the house read 'I can't do this again, sorry'.

The inquest was adjourned until January to await the results of a postmortem.

Chief Superintendent Liam Macdougall, head of the control rooms and enquiries department at Thames Valley Police said: "PC Rowantree was an extremely popular officer and was well liked by his colleagues.

"We are deeply saddened by the loss and Jim will be missed by all who knew him."

Grid road crossings put on hold

CONTROVERSIAL plans to place street-level pedestrian crossings on a grid road have been delayed due to the 'economic downturn'.

Milton Keynes Council announced ahead of last night's cabinet meeting that the proposals would be removed from the agenda.

The officer's report, which was due to be discussed by councillors, recommended that crossings be included at the new traffic light controlled junctions to be built on the V4, Watling Street and H4, Dansteed Way.

They will provide access to the new homes and facilities in the Western Expansion Area (WEA), south of Stony Stratford, for cyclists and pedestrians.

The officers dismissed calls for underpasses or footbridges as they would cost more.

It was met with anger by many councillors and campaigners who were set to voice their concerns at last night's meeting.

Cabinet member with responsibility for transport policy, Cllr Douglas McCall, said: "Due to the economic downturn the developer will not now be progressing with the development of the Western Expansion Area to their original timetable.

"Therefore, there is no need for the council to make a decision at this time."

A meeting has been set up in early November to discuss timetabling of the development.

BEST OVERALL RESTAURANT OF THE YEAR

Las Iguanas

As evidenced by the judges' comments above there is a wealth of quality dining establishments in Milton Keynes and all finalists deserve to feel that they are winners as they are in such distinguished company.

The judges deliberated long and hard over the overall winner this year and eventually decided that they had to take into account all aspects of the dining out experience. A famous chef has recently been quoted as saying that a restaurant must have a mix of everything : the food, atmosphere, culture and spirit must all appeal.

One restaurant this year received a perfect score from one of the judges. His comments about the well thought out menu, great lively atmosphere and warm, knowledgeable staff would be enough on their own but combined with the fact that diners are increasingly focused on great value for money make Las Iguanas a worthy winner this year.

BEST NEWCOMER

Las Iguanas

Our judges visited Las Iguanas on a rainy Friday lunchtime and came away feeling like they'd had a trip to Copacabana Beach.

They received a warm welcome from smiley staff who knew all details of the booking and had a great knowledge of the menu helping them find their way around some interesting dishes including bolinhos and chicken xinxim. Our meat expert was suitably impressed that beef was cooked exactly to order in his fajita as this is served on a sizzling skillet and all felt that the food arrived at the table in superb condition.

The judges were also impressed by the value for money.

Alejandra Friess of Las Iguanas with the hundreds of votes cast by MK diners

BEST WORKING LUNCH

Dragon Boat

To recognise that venues need to cater for people who want an option to eat out in a limited time-frame, with good value and quality food, a new category designated 'Working Lunch' was created. The judges visited over lunch and had the stopwatch running - they were in and out within the hour without the food or service suffering and szechuan chicken and pork ribs were particular favourites.

BEST BUSINESS LUNCH

Brasserie Blanc

The judges considered that the food was well prepared and presented. Of particular merit was the fact that the steak ordered was well trimmed and cooked exactly as requested, the service was reliable and efficient with lots of smiles and the atmosphere is very relaxed, light and airy, very much in keeping with the French brasserie theme. This venue represented very good value by way of the set lunch with wine but also had an extensive wine list with prices that were reasonable within all categories.

HIGHLY COMMENDED

Taipan

Taipan deserves to be highly commended in this category for the high standard of food (particularly the dim sum) and fast and efficient service.

BEST FINE DINING

The Plough at Wavendon

At the meeting between the judges to agree the winners, it became apparent that recognition of the different elements of eating out needed to be recognized and they requested that a further category be added. The Plough represents top end dining with good quality food made from local and named ingredients.

BEST SERVICE

Wagamama

All judges rated Wagamamas highly for being informal but efficient and having a very buzzy atmosphere with food that lived up to the descriptions given by the helpful and friendly staff. Although the food does not arrive at the same time you are told of this at the start and it shows that all food is cooked o order. The judges were impressed with the quality and value of their experience and noted that it appealed to all age groups and both sexes.

HIGHLY COMMENDED

Cafe Ganges

The judges felt that Cafe Ganges deserved to be highly commended by virtue of their pleasant, efficient staff and the fact that the food was served professionally and at the same time – a feat in itself as all six members of the party had ordered different mains, vegetables, rice and breads and the restaurant was full.

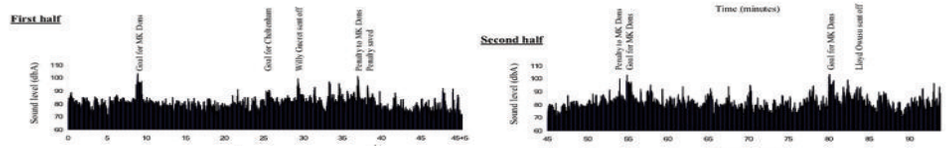
Fans have a shout in MK science fest



FOOTBALL fans can be as loud as a pneumatic drill as they proved when they took part in a Milton Keynes Science Festival demonstration.

The festival runs until Friday and has proved a big success with a host of demonstrations, talks and activities taking place across the city.

As part of the festival, Open University acoustics experts Dr David Sharp and Dr Shahram Taherzadeh attended Saturday's MK Dons v Cheltenham Town match to find out just how loud the MK Dons fans really are.

Just before the start of the game, Dr Sharp took a sound level meter down to the pitch to measure how many decibels the crowd generated when welcoming the players out of the tunnel.

The metre recorded a level of 95 dBA, comparable to the noise experienced when standing next to heavy traffic.

Following this, Dr Sharp and Dr Taherzadeh monitored the sound levels throughout the match from the TV gantry, using precisely calibrated microphones and professional recording equipment.

With such an incident-filled game there was plenty for the fans to shout about, and the peak sound levels often exceeded the pre-match pitchside level.

At moments of high drama such as the goals and the red cards, levels as high as 104 dBA were recorded. This is almost as loud as the noise produced by a pneumatic drill.

Elsewhere University boffinsteamed up with car manufacturer Nissan to wow motor enthusiasts.

Cranfield University's Automotive Engineering Department and the Cranfield-based Nissan Technical Centre Europe (NTCE) wetre at the festival to present a glimpse of the future of environmentally-sound motoring as well as showing practical measures that the public can use to drive more economically and protect the environment.

Dr James Marco and his teamshowcased their Hybrid Electric Vehicle (HEV) design, integration and testing work which is hoping to improve the way vehicles work, while Nissan's engineers at NTCE have prepared a display featuring the 'QashCO2nomy Challenge'.

The challenge saw seven test drivers from NTCE take turns piloting a 1.5dCi Qashqai from Land's End to John O'Groats without once stopping to refuel.

Dr Marco said: "Cranfield University has an established history of research and teaching for the automotive sector and has developed dedicated facilities to support this. We view the modeling, control and testing of HEVs as one of our primary core-competencies. We always place a strong emphasis on the importance of designing practical engineering solutions for real hybrid electric and fuel cell vehicles."

Jerry Hardcastle, vice president Nissan Technical Centre Europe said: "We are supporting the MK Science Festival and Cranfield University to showcase an example of practical automotive research and development expertise in action. Over 16 years of working together in the automotive research and development field we have developed a strong relationship with Cranfield University. We look forward to working together to develop automotive technologies to provide sustainable mobility solutions for the future."

Police trial 'new-look' uniforms

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE
jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

POLICE in Milton Keynes could soon be swapping their traditional helmets for baseball caps, trousers for combats and ditching their white shirt and tie.

Proposals to overhaul the uniform of Thames Valley Police are currently being trialled in neighbouring Aylesbury for three months.

If successful, all front-line officers' attire – white shirt, tie, trousers and helmet, driving cap or bowler – could be replaced with black shirt, combat style trousers, and a baseball cap.

Office-based staff, though, would continue to wear shirts and ties.

The public will be asked for their views on November 28 at a roadshow in Midsummer Place in the city centre, where they will be allowed to ask officers about the changes.

The force believes the uniform is a big part of its identity, and therefore it is important to settle on the right clothing.

The new look is currently only worn in Britain by special operations officers and resembles American police uniforms.

The review comes after a survey of 500 officers on the existing uniform revealed that the helmet can hinder them catching criminals and the tie restricts the coverage of body armour.

Chief Inspector Dave Parker, project co-ordinator, said: "Policing is constantly changing and is obviously a physically demanding and sometimes dangerous job which necessitates officers having a comfortable uniform which is fit for purpose. The current uniform appears not to have kept pace with what officers need it to do and it is believed the new uniform will meet officers' requirements.

"The public will have the chance to see the uniform at these road shows. We welcome feedback from the public on their views on the uniform and will take these into consideration when the final decision is made."

The results of the pilot and consultation will be fed back to CCMT in early 2009 before a final decision in made.

IN: black shirt, combat style trousers, and a baseball cap
OUT: white shirt, tie, trousers and helmet, driving cap or bowler

OAP hit by sports car fights for life

A PENSIONER is fighting for life after he was hit by a sports car.

The 73-year-old man was walking near the Puxley turn of the A422 when he was hit by a green Lotus, at 7.30am on Friday.

Police closed the road between Deanshanger and Stony Stratford so that an air ambulance could land.

The 73-year-old was airlifted to Walsgrave Hospital in Coventry, suffering from serious head injuries.

His identity has not yet been disclosed by police and he was described as being in a serious but stable condition yesterday.

The driver of the car, a 61-year-old man, was not injured during the collision and no arrest has been made.

Northamptonshire Police has appealed for witnesses or anyone with information about the incident to call the Drivewatch Hotline on 0800 174615 or send an SMS text to 07765 637201.

Why I started making cards

by Vanessa from HobbyCraft

I was so proud of the first card I ever made. I think it must have been something to do with the sheer pleasure it gave me to make it and the look on my sister's face when she opened it, which I hope was delight! That was in 1998 and I've been hooked ever since.

With Christmas just a few weeks away I've already started making my Christmas cards. I would like to give more presents but the credit crunch and higher fuel prices make that impossible. For me, a handcrafted card is the next best thing.

The good news for anyone who wants to make cards is that you don't have to be creative - I should know!

Modern materials like ready made card blanks and peel off stickers make it easy to create a handmade card, even if your hands are the size of a shovel.

For design ideas just look around you, in card shops, magazines, books and even posters.

There are lots of different techniques you can use too, from traditional paper and card with embellishments to decoupage, cross stitch, glass painting, Iris folding, shaker, quilling, Pergamano, stamping and more.

For materials, it's always worth visiting a specialist store like HobbyCraft – the modern day equivalent of an Aladdin's Cave for all things card making and creative, and it's all under one roof!

You can choose from more than 400 card blanks alone, from single cards to multi-packs, and papers in a huge choice of colours and special finishes.

Add to this hundreds of ribbons, more than 700 rubber stamps and pads, hundreds and thousands of outline stickers and embellishments, and more tools than you can imagine from all the leading brands, and you begin to understand why HobbyCraft was voted the Best Craft Chain in the UK by readers of Crafts Beautiful and Quick&Crafty in the 2007 Craft Awards.

My top tip for anyone getting started is to remember that there is no right or wrong way to make a card, and whatever you make it's sure to be appreciated. So experiment and have fun!

Creating personalised cards is a great activity for you to enjoy with the children too, helping them to channel active and colourful imaginations into something fun and rewarding.

So, if you receive a handcrafted card this year remember how lucky you are - that someone cared enough to make a card just for you.

Sanctuary: 21-year-old Adam Gidman, a resident at the YMCA

'You can stay there, and I'm sure you will find Many ways to have a good time'

DESPITE the lyrics of the song, it was never meant to be 'fun' to stay at the YMCA.

The purpose of the hostels, as with Milton Keynes's branch, was practical: to put a roof over the heads of those who needed it.

But now, as bosses of the North Row-based YMCA plan a £17million revamp, they are intent on turning the new site into a place of entertainment, sport, music, shopping, and socialising for all the city's young people.

Of course expanding the accommodation is the priority, since the hostel is usually full and means people are turned away on a daily basis.

Therefore the 15 beds of emergency accommodation will become 20, while the current 122 flats, 40 of which are high support, will be increased to 150.

Meanwhile improving the condition of the rooms is welcomed by existing residents such as 21-year-old Adam Gidman.

He said: "It's alright at the moment but it could be a lot better. I think what they've got planned for the place is great."

For this to happen, demolition rather than refurbishment is the chosen route, where the three apartment blocks will each be replaced in stages on the existing site.

Tony Round, fundraising manager, said: "Either it needs a huge amount of refurbishment or tearing all down and starting again. We have chosen the latter.

"At the moment they can't have washing machines because of the way it was plumbed, and because all rooms are slightly different it makes it difficult to replace any of the units. The whole thing is showing its age and needs to be replaced."

YMCA residents and non-residents are to be integrated with the construction of a state-of-the-art 'YBASE' containing whatever young people in the city want.

> You do not have to be male or Christian to stay at the YMCA. But after a multi-million pound overhaul of the city's hostel, you will not even have to stay there to enjoy its new facilities, as reporter JESSICA CUNNIFFE found out

This vision is borne of the abundance of costly activities in the city centre and consequent groups of loitering teens.

"Unless you've got money and unless you're old enough to drink there is little to do here," said Mr Round.

"Instead of just building social housing developments for people with troubles we want to do something for everyone. Areas for performance, places for artists and musical activities and even a recording studio have been suggested.

"It will be somewhere just to hang out, where you don't just get sniffed at and moved on."

So far a bid has been put in for £4.6 million of 'My Place' funding from the government.

If all goes according to the plan it should be completed by September 2011.

In the meantime they hope bold, innovative designs will emerge, and a competition for architects to come up with these are in the pipeline - plus the entire project is under the creative patronage of Tate Modern creator, Michael Casey.

"It has to be practical and environmentally sound, but we really want the wow factor," added Mr Round.

To ensure what is contained in this YBASE is as successful as its appearance, it has been decided that young people will determine the outcome - be it a football pitch or tennis courts, a cinema or music room.

So far the city's youth cabinet has canvassed young people, and of the 300 respondents, 60 said they would like to help make the designs a reality by getting involved.

A place for young people, designed by the people who used it is the aim.

In fact, the YMCA has even put a bid in to the national lottery for a youth embassy on the site, where residents could represent their peers in decision making.

"Sometimes speaking to young people is like visiting another country. The idea is that if you want to visit young people, go to their embassy first. It's just one of the many ideas we've got on the cards.

"After all, we have more young people here than in any other part of the country. They deserve something like this."

Church concert to honour war dead

The Memorable Order of the Tin Hats (MOTHS) memorial on North Row Central Milton Keynes

BY JESSICA CUNNIFFE
jessica.cunniffe@mk-news.co.uk

IN the absence of any central war memorial or remembrance parades in Milton Keynes, the Royal British Legion has organised a new event to honour those who lost their lives in combat.

The Newport Pagnell branch of the society is holding its first ever concert of remembrance at the Church of Christ the Cornerstone, on Saxon Gate West on November 8 at 8pm.

Their announcement comes after MK NEWS reported last week that there is no central memorial, and therefore no Remembrance Day parades, in Milton Keynes.

The event, in conjunction with MK Brass and The Rifles, will hear from a modern day soldier what life is like in a war situation, as well as what life was like in the First World War.

The finale will be a sing a-along with MK Brass to many of the old war time favourites. It lasts about an hour and everyone is welcome. There will be a collection during the service for the Poppy Appeal.

Mike Barry, chairman of Newport Pagnell's branch of the Royal British Legion, said: "It all stems back from the fact that there is no central war memorial.

"People in Central Milton Keynes have got nowhere to go on Remembrance Sunday morning.

"Now they have the opportunity to go to the church for this service, with the mayor, the High Sheriff, the Deputy Lord Lieutenant and other dignitaries.

"This is the first year we are doing it and it is very much a pilot. It's very much along the lines of the Royal Albert Hall festival of remembrance where poppies fall from the ceiling at the end of it."

Homes evacuated as digger hits gas main

HOUSES in Shenley Lodge were evacuated after a digger ruptured a gas mains and caught alight.

A fire crew from Great Holm was called to Paxton Crescent shortly after midday on Monday.

They found the digger, which was being used to dig the foundations for a house extension, 'well alight'.

Firefighters evacuated two houses nearby as a precaution, closed the road, cordoned off the area and contained the fire until the gas supplier arrived.

Watch manager Lee Bloom explained that they could not put the fire out until the gas supply was cut off to avoid the risk of an explosion.

"We sprayed a line of water onto the digger to stop it getting damaged further," he said.

It is believed the digger also went through the electrical supply, which lit the gas causing the blaze.

There were no injuries.

Residents were allowed back into the homes and the road was opened two hours later.

MK LETTERS EXTRA

Letters to The Editor, MK NEWS, 1 Diamond Court, Fox Milne, Milton Keynes MK15 0DU | letters@mk-news.co.uk

Take it to the limit

SIR – I was interested to read Tom O'Brian's letter in your edition dated October 22, in which he was of the opinion that the speed limits on the grid roads which are dual carriageways are 60mph, because they are not separated from estate feeder roads, but the limit on the A5 is 70 because it is accessed from feeder roads.

The Highway Code does not, and never has, differentiated in this way.

Most of the grid roads which are also dual carriageways have a speed limit of 70mph, unless a lower speed limit is posted, for example those dual carriageways around the city centre which have a limit of 30mph.

So the H8 Standing Way has a limit of 70mph except at the roundabout with Saxon Street where the limit is 40, H6 Childs Way is 70 all the way except near the roadworks approaching junction 14 of the M1, V8 Marlborough Street is 70 most of its length, etc.

Mind you, these are limits, not targets.

We should only drive to the limit if it is safe to do so.

If Mr O'Brian wishes to brush up on the Highway Code and his driving skills, then Milton Keynes Advanced Motorists would be pleased to welcome him to their membership

LETTERS POLICY

Letters must arrive by noon on Monday. Full name and address must be supplied.

Details will be withheld in only exceptional circumstances.

Letters should be kept short and to the point and may be edited.

Too low jobs target

SIR – Your report (MK NEWS, October 22) is right to highlight the tragedy of local unemployment, which is rising faster in MK under the Lib-Dem administration than both the regional average and the national average.

The reasons are clear.

The Lib-Dems have accepted a target of just one new job per new household, despite all the evidence which shows that MK needs about 1.5 jobs per new household.

So there aren't enough jobs being created for the families moving to MK, and the obvious consequence is unemployment rising faster in MK than other places.

The effect of this disastrous policy may be concealed somewhat by the house-building slow down, but as the country moves into recession, MK's economy will probably continue to do worse than average under the Lib-Dems, unless the Conservatives succeed in getting this policy changed.

We are campaigning for an increase in the new jobs target for MK and for an increase in education standards to at least the national average so MK's youngsters are well equipped to compete for jobs in the future.

As part of maximising the job opportunities for local people, we are also campaigning to protect and expand the grid-road system because it helps make MK a great place for firms to be based.

If residents want more local jobs for themselves and their children, we'd welcome their support for these campaigns.

Wing a a prayer

SIR – On Monday, October 6, I made my first solo journey in my car to TK Max, Bletchley.

I arrived at 11.45am parked in a disabled parking bay next to a light blue people carrier in front of the store entrance.

I had a lovely shopping experience and at 12.54pm returned to my car.

Unfortunately someone had damaged my car's front driver's wing, I returned to the store and asked if the accident had been reported.

A lady store manager called security and said that he would look through the CTV footage and would contact me later that day.

True to his word he phoned and informed me that it had been captured on the CTV camera and he would pass the footage on to the police.

My car is now undergoing repairs at a cost to me of £100.

The police are now spending valuable man hours going through the CTV footage and have endured hours of form filling and time at the police station that could have been avoided.

So if the owner of the light blue people carrier is reading this – call in to the police station before they call for you.

I would like to thank TK Max security and the police for their assistance and am looking forward to a satisfactory outcome.

Council now the last chance for four POs

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

Mobility scooter users in a failed protest to keep Fishermead Post Office open

TWO more Post Offices that were given a stay of execution are to be axed.

Post Office Ltd announced yesterday that branches in Conniburrow and Fishermead will close.

It marks the end of a month-long wait by local communities near the Post Offices.

The future of the branches has remained uncertain since Wednesday, September 17 while the issue was reviewed by Consumer Focus (formerly Postwatch), the consumer body representing Post Office customers.

Worries that their closure would overload Crown Walk in Central Milton Keynes have been dismissed and both branches will close in January 2009.

Mark Lancaster, MP for Milton Keynes North East, said: "This is really bad news for Milton Keynes having had our hopes raised that Fishermead and Conniburrow may be saved."

As MK NEWS went to press last night the council's cabinet was due to discuss again whether it could intervene to continue Post Office services at four of the threatened branches.

This is now the last chance for Post Offices in Conniburrow, Fishermead, Little Brickhill and Weston Underwood.

Several parish councils were set to put forward money to help save their local branch.

As reported in MK NEWS at the end of September, Milton Keynes Council gave postmasters, parish councils and communities more time to investigate other forms of funding or income to help their local branches become sustainable.

Ahead of the last night's meeting Mark Covington, whose family has run the Weston Underwood Post Office for more than 100 years, said three parish councils in the area offered financial support.

He could not say how much as the figures are covered by a confidentiality agreement with Post Office Ltd, but Weston Underwood Parish Council promised a 'sizeable amount'.

"We have put forward a realistic set of figures to keep the Post Office going," said Mr Covington.

"Ravenstone and Stoke Goldington parish councils have also said they will give financial support within their means if that is what is needed. We are still fighting for it and think something can be done but it is now down to what the council can come up with."

Barry Landsberg, member of Little Brickhill Residents Association, said the village's parish council decided to make a contribution from their budget towards saving their branch after a meeting with local residents.

"At least 50 people attended the meeting and unanimously voted that they wanted this," he said.

The cabinet was set to decide if it would establish a £60,000 project fund to take forward any solutions.

Councillors were warned in September that intervention to save branches will be expensive to taxpayers and may only delay the 'inevitable', as the local authority is only allowed to help support the branches for three years.

New primary officially opened

A TOP children's author has formally opened a state of the art school in Tattenhoe Park.

Former Children's Laureate Michael Morpugo OBE cut the ribbon at Priory Rise School yesterday (Tuesday, October 21).

Local dignitaries including Mayor of Milton Keynes Jan Lloyd also attended.

The primary school has been built to take 420 pupils as the Tattenhoe Park and Kingsmead areas develop.

It will also have a 39-place nursery for children aged three and four, which will be opening on the site in April 2009.

The school opened its doors for the first time at the start of the autumn term and is currently attended by 50 pupils aged between four and eight.

Headteacher Sue Cox said: "We are absolutely thrilled and very privileged to have Michael Morpurgo open our new school.

"We recognise how important good literacy skills are for children and we believe passionately in inspiring children to develop a love of reading.

"It is therefore a wonderful opportunity for our children to meet such an esteemed author whom they greatly admire."

Milton Keynes Council's cabinet member for children, Cllr Sandra Clark said: "Priory Rise is a fantastic environment for local children that will certainly motivate and inspire them."

There will be an Open Day at the school on Thursday, November 6 from 5pm until 6.30pm.

For more information call 01908 502572 or email prioryrise@milton-keynes.gov.uk

At the topping out ceremony are: The school's business manager Doug Sutton, Year 9 pupil Rachel Denney, Cllr Sandra Clark, chairman of governors Edna Treacher and Year 11 pupil Kwame Adom

Hazeley School tops out

A 'TOPPING out' ceremony was held at The Hazeley School as building work on the site reached new heights.

The event celebrated the installation of the final piece of steel structure on the third phase of building work at the school.

This latest phase of work, which is due to be completed in June 2009, includes the construction of a new teaching block, sixth form areas, additional sports facilities and changing rooms, and a state-of-the-art training kitchen for catering courses that the school will be offering next year.

The £9.2million project is being delivered by Milton Keynes Council with contractors Norwest Holst who are a partner in the council's new Construction Framework.

Headteacher, Iain Denning, said: "Today's ceremony marks a real milestone in the development of The Hazeley School. We are all delighted that it will provide us with more state of the art learning spaces for all our students and we are especially excited by the provision in this phase of dedicated Sixth Form areas. This will allow us to develop our exciting range of post 16 courses, including the International Baccalaureate, which is unique in Milton Keynes."

Medical centre plans are refused as being 'too big'

Bletchley surgery, dentist and chemist 'out of character'

BY LAURA HANNAM
laura.hannam@mk-news.co.uk

PLANS to build a two-storey medical centre in Bletchley have been refused by the council.

Councillors believe the proposals in Witham Court would be too big and out of character with the surrounding area.

Milton Keynes Primary Care Trust (PCT) submitted plans to build a doctor's surgery, dental practice and pharmacy following the demolition of Tweed House Nursing Home, which closed in July.

The medical centre would provide a new building for Whaddon House surgery, as their current premises is outdated and restricts the services it can provide.

The development would also include four flats and four houses.

A petition against the proposals signed by 56 residents was sent to Milton Keynes Council, raising concerns that the increase in traffic could create an accident black spot.

The council's development control committee threw out the application on Thursday, October 16 due to its size and as it would damage the privacy of nearby residents.

A spokesman for Milton Keynes PCT said its developer plans to appeal this decision without delay.

Extracare announced the possible closure of Tweed House in 2007 alongside MHA Care Group, which planned to close Westbury Care Home, in Newport Pagnell

MHA decided to scrap plans to close the home for people with advanced dementia, in Westbury Close, following a consultation with residents' relatives.

An application to build a 15-bed extension and partly refurbish neighbouring Paganall Grange care home was given the go ahead by councillors on Thursday, October 16, subject to the receipt of amended plans showing the fence relocated.

When it is completed residents at Westbury will be transferred to the new extension on Paganall Grange.

The old Westbury building will then be demolished and a new development of 49 Extracare flats will be built on the site.

Licence dodgers beware

MORE than 1,630 people have been caught watching TV without a licence in Milton Keynes this year.

As a result the licensing authorities have warned anyone in the city watching their sets without a licence will continue to pursue those who do not pay.

In fact, with a special campaign on Halloween, they warn that trick or treaters may not be the only people knocking on doors in the city.

With a database of almost 30million addresses they can pinpoint which properties are unlicensed, and enquiry officers will continue to target people as winter sets in.

Joanna Pearce, TV Licensing spokesman, said: "TV Licensing has a duty to enforce the licence fee on behalf of the honest majority who pay, which is why we'll be out visiting licence cheats in Milton Keynes this Halloween."

It's Wear it Pink Day on Friday

Raising awareness of breast cancer after 34 MK deaths in one year

AFTER 34 deaths in Milton Keynes from breast cancer in one year, people are being asked to raise awareness and funds and look out for the signs themselves.

Milton Keynes PCT wants people to get involved in Wear it Pink Day on Friday by wearing pink to work or school and donating money.

In Milton Keynes in 2006, there were 34 deaths from breast cancer. Nearly a third of all cancers in women are breast cancer. About 46,000 women in the UK are diagnosed with the disease each year.

The PCT has also offered advice to woman to check their breasts regularly and what to look out for.

Women with first and second degree paternal or maternal relatives who have had breast cancer should meet with their GP to find out whether they are at increased risk. If your family history shows that you are at increased risk of getting breast cancer compared to the rest of the population, your GP will discuss with you the options available.

Dr Ivo Haest, Consultant in Public Health at the PCT, said: "As is the case with all cancers, early detection is vital in the successful treatment of breast cancer. Most breast cancers are detected because women have reported unusual changes to their GP. Ensure you make regular checking of your breasts a priority, so you know what is normal for you. It is important to see your GP at the earliest opportunity if you identify a change in your breasts.

"If you do find a lump in your breast, it is not necessarily cancer; nine out of ten breast lumps are not cancerous. Don't suffer in silence; your GP will ensure the issue is investigated and swiftly treated."

SIGNS OF POSSIBLE PROBLEMS

- Size or shape
one breast may become larger or lower than the other
- Skin texture
such as dimpling or puckering of the skin
- Appearance or direction of the nipple
one might become inverted (turned in)
- Discharge of a blood-stained liquid from one or both nipples
- Rash or crusting of the nipple or surrounding area
- Lump in the breast or armpit
- Lumpy area or unusual thickening of breast tissue that doesn't go away after your period
- Pain in the breast or armpit that is unrelated to your periods

Now's your chance to be Santa's Facebook friend

FACEBOOK fans can get themsleves a new friend – Father Christmas.

With only eight weeks to go until Christmas thecentre:mk Santa Claus has launched himself into the digital age by opening his very own facebook account 'Santa Atthecentremk'.

Santa's page contains information about himself and his preparations, provides another way in which Christmas letters can get to the North Pole and he's even opened an event on the site to provide more information about thecentre:mk's Christmas show in Middleton Hall.

Launched on October 22 to a select group, 'Santa Atthecentremk' already has over 150 friends and is receiving Christmas wish lists by the day.

The page was set up with the aim for Santa to communicate directly with the public in the lead up to Christmas, show recent developments in the Christmas Show including images and videos; also Santa hopes to run some exclusive competitions through his facebook account.

"I have to move with the times," said Santa from his Lapland home.

"My elves are constantly on facebook and I thought it was great way to communicate with the children in Milton Keynes and the surrounding region. The post office can be very stretched at Christmas time and this is a fantastic way for me to receive Christmas wish lists.

Santa with kids at thecentre:mk last year

All the same rules apply. I'm making my list; I'm checking it twice and will find out who's been naughty or nice. In the meantime I look forward to seeing everyone in Middleton Hall at thecentre:mk."

Santa arrives and opens his Grotto on November 17 and will be in residence until Christmas Eve.

On the 17 November you can join the fun of Santa's Procession as a giant magical train lantern carries Santa through the malls and down to Middleton Hall to open his magnificent Grotto! Wave and cheer as the long winding train with its enchanting illuminated lanterns and sparkling costumes, wends its way, dancing and singing through the shopping centre towards the Christmas show.

If you visit www.thecentremk.com you can now book online for Santa's Grotto to avoid any disappointment. The Grotto Opening times are 9am-6pm Mon-Sat in November, 9am-7pm Mon-Sat in December, 10am-6pm Sundays throughout November and December, Christmas Eve: Santa's Grotto closes completely at 1pm but the train remains open until 6pm whilst everything is closed on Christmas Day. The Christmas display and train ride open on November 7.

Bryan Ellis, service road supervisor at thecentre:mk filling up with bio-diesel

Bio-diesel do very nicely thank you

A city shopping centre has recently installed a bio-diesel plant in order to produce diesel for all its company vehicles.

The plant will take discarded oil form thecentre:mk's food outlets and is able to produce 50 litres of bio-diesel per day.

Bio-diesel is a clean-burning bio fuel produced from domestic renewable resources such as used cooking oil, oil seed crops such as rapeseed, or unused vegetable oil. It is biodegradable, non-toxic and carbon neutral and because it has 80 per cent lower emissions than mineral diesel, it dramatically reduces pollution. It is inexpensive and easy to produce at home and is safe to use in any diesel vehicle without any modifications to a car's engine.

Dan Murphy, operations manager of thecentre:mk said: "thecentre:mk takes its commitment to the environment very seriously employing over 4,000 people and having around 30 million visitors per year we can have a major influence with our environmental initiatives. Neat bio-diesel (100 per centbio-diesel) reduces CO2 emissions by more than 75 per cent over normal petroleum diesel.

By taking waste oil from the food outlets and producing bio-diesel it's another step in thecentre:mk's environmental policy. "

The news comes on the back of a series of environmental successes for thecentre:mk, in recent months onsite food composter 'Big Hanna' has started production and it has already processed almost 2.3 tonnes of food waste.

Sending waste to landfill generates 2.90 tonnes of greenhouse gases for each tonne of waste sent and ss no waste has gone to land fill, so far 6.66 tonnes of greenhouse gases have been saved by Big Hanna.

Coupling this with surpassing Government recycling targets four years ahead of schedule thecentre:mk has been named winner of the Energy and Environment Award, Milton Keynes and North Bucks Chamber of Commerce Business Excellence Awards.

Kids get veg kit

OLDBROOK School has received a boost to its health education teaching materials when Sainsbury's store manager Nick Wynne stopped by to deliver a 'Grow it, Cook it, Eat it' kit.

The kit includes all the equipment for a class of pupils to grow and cook their own fruit and vegetables. The kits are being delivered to selected schools as part of Sainsbury's Active Kids Get Cooking scheme to help schoolchildren understand where food comes from and to help develop their cooking skills.

Sue Davies, headteacher at Oldbrook School, said: "We're really grateful to Sainsbury's for this great kit. Free materials like this are invaluable and help us educate children about where food comes from and to teach them basic cooking skills – not to mention the importance of healthy eating. "

Mr Wynne added: "We are constantly looking for ways to make a positive difference to the local community. The donation of the 'Grow it, Cook it, Eat it' kit is a fun way of educating local school children about where food comes from and to also help teach them about the importance of healthy eating and basic cooking skills."

The Grow it, Cook it, Eat it kit will be supported by a book with the same title and provides information on food's journey from field to fork. Additional copies of the book will be distributed by post to schools in the area participating in the Active Kids Get Cooking scheme.

Head cams record Extreme experience

Smile! A video camera on a safety hat at Ariel Extreme

AERIAL Extreme is revolutionising their adventure ropes course by giving customers the chance to video record their experience.

The outdoor site based next to Willen Lake has introduced a brand new futuristic device; the 'HelmetCam,' which allows users to digitally tape up to 80 minutes of footage, as they scale rope bridges, negotiate balancing beams and whizz across zip lines.

Mounted on Aerial Extreme's safety helmets, the cameras connect to a nifty gadget on the wearer's wrist, allowing full control of recording. Trial runs have proved very successful, and the authenticity of a 'head-cam' has been popular with customers, who feel it captures the atmosphere of Aerial Extreme in a unique and memorable way.

Use of the HelmetCam is just £15, and customers are allowed to keep the 2GB SD card their video is recorded on to.

This technology is compatible with most modern computers and cameras, allowing the user to upload their video to Facebook, MySpace, YouTube, and DVD if they desire.

Site manager, Antoine Borysiewicz, said: "Although we are always keen to get people outdoors, Aerial Extreme is moving with the times as we become much more technology orientated. From our interactive Facebook group, to these futuristic 'HelmetCams', we want our customers to leave with a memory of their adventure at Aerial Extreme."

■ For more information, or to book a session on the course at Aerial Extreme, visit www.aerialextreme.co.uk, or call 0845 652 1736.

Children at Wavendon Gate School get to try out fire hoses

Ho, ho, hose

PUPILS at Wavendon Gate School experienced modern day fire fighting techniques when firefighters from Broughton Fire Station visited the school.

Earlier this term the pupils went to the London Museum to learn more about the Great Fire of London and the visit by the fire brigade gave them all the opportunity to compare appliances and techniques in operation today compared to 1666.

Jane Koszykowska, Year 2 teacher said " The children learned a lot about fire safety, but the highlight of the visit was definitely squirting the hose."

Richard Allman from Buckinghamshire Fire & Rescue Service based at Broughton said: "Our aim is to liaise with local schools and the community to inform and educate about the work we do, hazards involved and keeping people safe. "

A nurse for a year

A NURSE dedicated to helping terminally ill children in Milton Keynes has been funded for at least a year - thanks to 40 city companies.

More than £26,000 was raised through an Accumulator Challenge organised by the children's hospice, Keech Cottage.

Sponsors HSBC donated £50 to companies which they were then challenged to 'grow' by fundraising activities over the past three months.

The winner of the Accumulator Challenge was Volkswagen Financial Services United Kingdom of Blakelands which raised £6,124 - more than double any other company involved in the competition.

Keech Cottage Senior Corporate Fundraiser Paul Sutherland said: "The team from Volkswagen Finance has been fantastic. They took the £50 and really ran with it, starting with a raffle and then thinking of lots of other ways of raising money. They worked really hard and have been very enthusiastic."

Joanne Heady from Volkswagen Financial Services said: "We first got involved with the hospice last Christmas when a few of us visited to help put up Christmas decorations and donate gifts. We were absolutely overwhelmed by the marvelous work that goes on there and when we heard about the Accumulator Challenge we decided to become really involved and do all we could."

Mike Keel, Deputy Chief Executive at Keech Cottage, said the money raised had secured a nurse to work solely with Milton Keynes children and their families in their homes in the city.

Around 20 children from the city have life-limiting illnesses, and use the services of the hospice and its support nurse, who works alongside NHS professionals.

All hail to the ale at city beer fest

LOCAL ales will be ripe for tasting at the city's beer festival in Leadenhall this week.

The 'Concrete Pint' beer festival will be held at The Pitz in the Woughton Centre, Rainbow Drive from Thursday until Saturday.

The event is organised by the Milton Keynes and North Bucks branch of CAMRA, the Campaign for Real Ale.

Head cellarman Chris Scoggins said: "I am very excited about the beer list this year. It contains several breweries which we have never had before while still allowing for the vast percentage of our beer to be from breweries within 30 miles of our branch border."

The 30 mile radius for beer is all part of CAMRAs new LocALE initiative, which tries to encourage beer sourced locally to save unnecessary costs of transportation - met by both our pockets and the planet.

The festival doesn't just feature more than 55 casks of real ale, there will also be a good selection of cider and perry, food and festival games to play.

For more information, including what beers will be available, visit www.mkcamra.org.uk/beerfestival.htm, email festival@mkcamra.org.uk, or call organiser Carl Dillow on 07740 092520.

The event will run from midday until 11pm each day.

There is a £3 charge for entry after 5pm on Thursday and Friday but it is free at all other times.

It is also free for CAMRA members at all times and if you join CAMRA at the festival, your admission charge will be refunded.

Candle power helps makes wishes come true

A BUSINESSWOMAN in Milton Keynes is holding a charity night to help light up children's lives.

Joanne Bennet, an independent consultant for candle company PartyLite, will be raising funds for The Make-A-Wish-Foundation UK, which makes dreams come true for youngsters with life threatening illnesses at The Fountain Harvester in Loughton on November 3.

Joanne, 36, said: "I am urging local businesses to donate raffle prizes to help me raise money for this very worthy charity that Harvester supports. I will be setting up a candle pool where people can buy a square and £50 will go to the charity for each sheet we can fill. A winner will be picked at the end of the night and they will get £50 to spend on PartyLite products.

"My quality candles and accessories will give your house a really cosy feel as the nights draw in before Christmas, and they also make ideal stocking fillers. The SNUGS team with their certificates and medals after the trampolining and rhythmic gymnastics contest

Team jumps for joy

SEVEN members of a city trampolining club have been selected to represent the country.

The Special Needs Unit Gymnasts (SNUGS) - recently won 30 medals at the southern region competition for gymnastics and movement for people with disabilities held in Poole.

The competition tested a range of gymnastics disciplines (bars, vault, beam, floor and rhythmic gymnastics routines), as well as trampolining. Some 300 gymnasts took part over the weekend.

After the event seven of the team were selected for the National Trampoline Squad.

The SNUGS trampolining team's outstanding performance has been enhanced by having a second trampoline funded by a grant from the Milton Keynes Community Foundation.

Dominic Morgan, chairman of the SNUGS committee said: "The SNUGS demonstrate that disability is no barrier to sporting achievement.

"The competition was very strong, and even so, the SNUGS team of 12 came back with 30 medals, including 11 golds. It just shows how talented they are and how hard they work!"†

The SNUGS are unique in the UK, being the only independent gymnastics club for youngsters with special needs, and not affiliated to an able-bodied club.

Under the expert eye of coaches Harry Sharpe, Andy Fisher and Penny Anstey, the SNUGS train every week at Woughton Campus, learning a variety of skills and developing their potential in a range of gymnastics disciplines and trampolining.

Mr Morgan added: "This success is a tribute to the time and effort put in by our volunteer coaches and assistants, and we owe them a huge debt of gratitude."

Spooks & Sparklers

In England, the day of fires became November 5th, the anniversary of the Gunpowder Plot of 1605, but it's closeness to Halloween is more than a coincidence.

Halloween and Bonfire Night have a common origin, they both originate from pagan times, when the evil spirits of darkness had to be driven away by noise and fire. This all seems quite ominous, however, November 1st was the beginning of 'the season of darkness' (Winter) and the 'evil spirits of darkness' was just a reference to the nights drawing in and the days getting colder. This day was celebrated as New Year and October 31st was therefore New Years Eve and marked the end of 'the season of summer'.

As we do now, New Years Eve was an evening of festivity, with bonfires being built to frighten the spirits away, with feasting and dancing.

The Roman Catholic Church pronounced November 1st a holiday in 835AD to honour all the saints. Although a joyous holiday it was also the eve of All Souls Day, so it became customary to pray for the dead on this date. Another name for All Saints Day is 'All Hallows' – hallows being an archaic word for 'saint.

It soon becomes apparent how these holidays have become slightly muddled together, and throughout the world we now use this time to have fun with our families and enjoy good food and huddle around the fire watching fireworks.

MUSIC REVIEWS

WOMANIZER
Britney Spears

EVER get the feeling that sometimes the title of a song is thought up before the song itself?

I do, especially when it comes to this particular effort. Now, there's not really very much wrong with the tune, apart from the drum beats in the opening seconds. Those beats don't belong on a 21st century pop single, they belong on a short piece of mid-1980s incidental music that plays whenever Crockett and Tubbs are trying to find a way to get into an old abandoned warehouse without attracting the attention of the assorted criminal masterminds inside.

Apart from that, the tune's fine. The problem (as is usually the case when La Spears opens her mouth and starts to sing) is the words. It almost sounds like the lyric writer got past the first verse with no apparent problems and then he or she wrote down the word 'womanizer', at which point something very important in their head went 'ping'. Here's what's happened. For the first 45 seconds, we get a reasonably good pop song.

It's not going to win any awards, but compared to I'm Not A Girl, Not Yet A Woman this is a work of unbridled genius. Actually, compared to that, anything by the Vengaboys is also a work of unbridled genius, but that's beside the point. Within the space of the remaining three minutes, the word 'womaniser' (or the American spelling thereof) is used no fewer than 42 times. That's 42 times. Britney Spears sings the same word 42 times in three minutes. That's an average of once every 4.3 seconds.

Thank God I only heard the radio edit.

If you thought "Umbrella-ella-ella" was ridiculous, that's got nothing on this. Thanks to Britney Spears and her songwriters, with this song we have here an extremely effective demonstration of what happens when you take Rihanna's habit of repeating her lyrics to its logical conclusion. I fear most of its listeners'll be sick of hearing the title before they get sick of the actual song. Now, one thing I should make very clear is that I'm not actually having a go at Britney Spears herself. She has an uncanny knack of singing drivel, but she sings it well enough, and she certainly sounds like she's enjoying herself with this one. Given the number of times she has to sing the same word over and over, she probably treated the whole thing as a tongue twister that's been set to music.

Of course, in the end nothing I say will make any difference – this song's going to be a hit whether I like it or not, but if you ask me a little less repetition would've improved this song immeasurably.

JUMP THAT ROCK (WHATEVER YOU WANT)
Scooter vs Status Quo

THIS has to be a joke.

I won't believe it until I hear it. Back in a minute…

I've heard it and I still don't believe it. Even though it's exactly as I imagined it would be, I still can't quite accept it's happened.

Status Quo sing and play the chorus while Scooter bounce up and down, say "Scooter in the house" and go insane for the rest – basically, it's as you were for all involved and it's simultaneously terrible and unmissable at the same time, a bit like watching The Word used to be.

I'm not even going to guess as to who's going to get the bigger boost to their career out of this.

A final thought – one of Scooter's more recent singles was called The Question Is What Is The Question? I still don't know what the question was, but I'd like to think the answer is Status Quo.

FILM REVIEW: QUANTUM OF SOLACE

QUANTUM of Solace?

You what? Worst Bond title ever, no question. For a few months there you couldn't help thinking that after James had got, by 007's standards, a bit shaken and stirred over a girl in Casino Royale, that this follow up might just have turned into a kitchen-sink drama-cum-chick-flick exploring the emotions of a secret agent.

Dr. No chance of that, not unless that emotion is rage and a blood thirsty ruthlessness like never before.

Quantum flexes its muscles from the word go with a high-octane opening sequence, stripped of any flab that follows directly on from the previous film, one hour after Casino Royale's climax - the first ever Bond to so.

Daniel Craig's debut two years ago was hailed as a new lease of life for everyone's favourite spy with the hardest-edged and grittiest Bond ever.

Again he gets bumps, bruises, bleeds a little these days, but let's not carried away in the assumption that Bond is now anything other than sheer fantasy - always has been, always will.

If he had any dalliance with realism then 007 wouldn't be jetting around the world 'offing' people with a PPK, he'd be losing briefcases crammed with official secrets on the 7.20 to Victoria.

But it is all change for Bond these days and women will be glad that even the girls have moved with the times too. No longer is the Bond girl a fawning beauty who drops her knickers at the first sight of Bond's golden gun. In fact, a rarity for our James but he doesn't get his wicked way with Camille (Olga Kurylenko) at all.

It's her Bond-sized vendetta against a bad-to-the bone Bolivian general, leads 007 to the villain of the piece Dominic Greene (Mathieu Amalric).

Like no other Bond before this is an out an out revenge story, which inadvertently leads our man to a secret international crime syndicate called Quantum.

He soon finds that almost everyone is up to no good, including MI6 and the CIA who are given a "capture or kill" order when he starts to sing from his own hymn sheet.

Quantum is another success although a fraction less stunning than Casino Royale purely because of the reinvigoration of Bond that the previous film represented.

It certainly bodes well that Craig's Bond won't only live twice.

THE SPICE LOUNGE

THE Spice Lounge in the Theatre District is reopening on Friday under a new 'retro' identity.

Food is off the menu as the venue's kitchen has served its last Bombay Aloo and closed to make way for the Spice Lounge 'Discotheque'.

The new bar and nightclub is set to be a 'fun and energetic' venue says manager, Marie Scrocca "Spice Lounge Discotheque will target an older crowd looking for a place to relax and unwind. We will play everything from the 80's onwards to create a real disco atmosphere that will have customers dancing and singing into the early hours", she adds.

The venue is currently undergoing a small refurbishment which will see the introduction of a giant disco ball that will dominate the area above a new dance-floor. Downstairs will feature seating areas while upstairs will completely lose the old dining tables to be replaced with stylish lounge booths overlooking the dance-floor. This new VIP area will give customers a great location for parties and celebrations.

Open on Friday and Saturday only, Spice Lounge Discotheque will bring in a regular line up of 'disco' entertainment that will start immediately on the opening weekend.

Roller skaters will hand out champagne on the opening night

THE PITZ

THE VIEW + TWISTED WHEEL
Wednesday, November 5
CHART-TOPPING Scottish indie punks, The View hail from that less than fashionable city of Dundee.

Indeed, of the city's two most notable additions to the pop canon are The Associates and The Average White Band, one's tale ended in tragedy, while the other specialized in soul-funk.

But all that has changed with the advent of The View, the city of discovery's newest and greatest white hopes. After deciding that their ambitions stretched considerably further than hawking 'Up The Junction' around the pubs and clubs of Dundee, they began writing and rehearsing their own songs in the backroom of their local, The Bayview Bar (hence the band's name).

Armed with an album's worth of great tunes, it didn't take them long to build up a following around the city, and after only their second gig, local indie label Two Thumbs declared that they wanted to release an EP with the band.

With an ever-growing band of believers and the release of their new single this week the rest of the UK is about to find out what the residents of Dundee have known for some time.

Ticket £12.50. Doors 7.30pm.

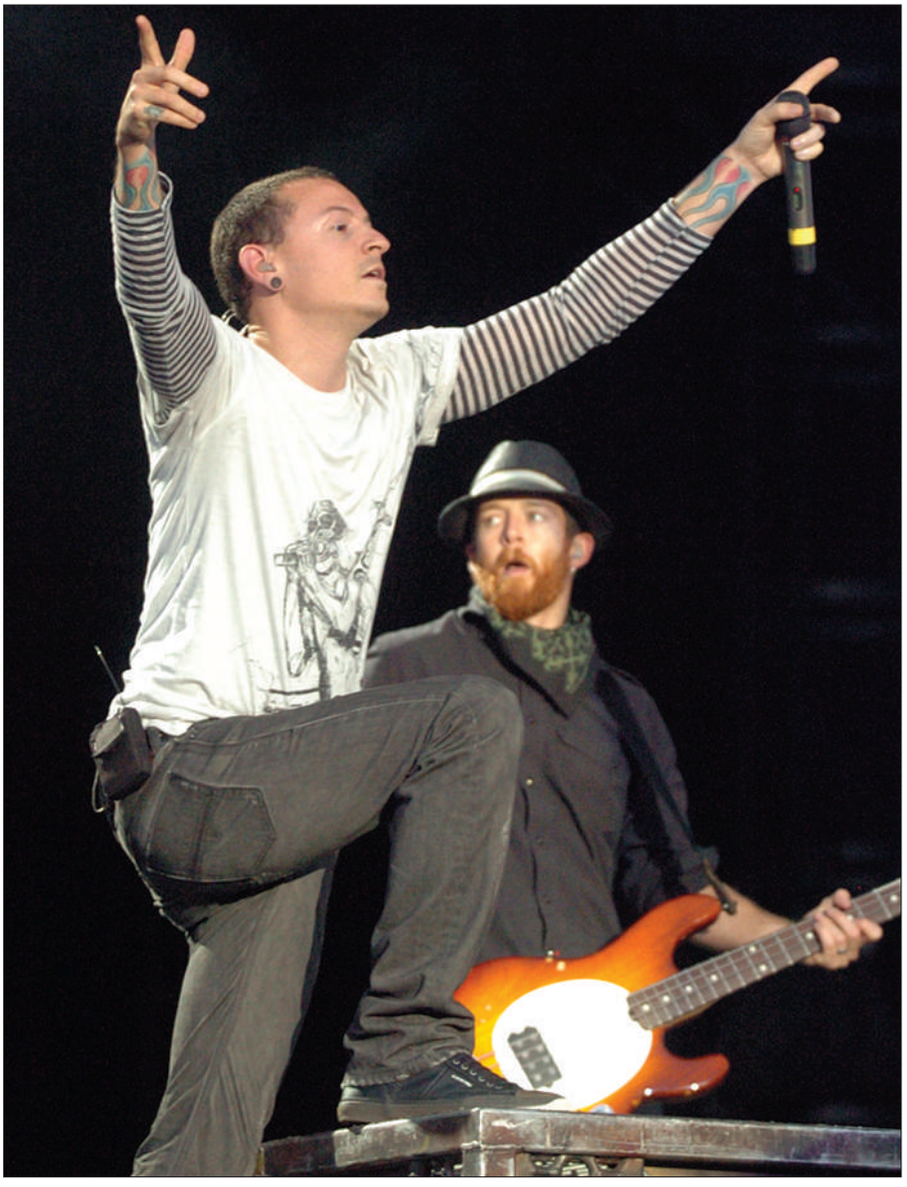
Re-live Linkin Park at the Bowl



FANS of American rock band Linkin Park will be delighted to hear they are releasing a new CD which was recorded live in Milton Keynes.

The band's newest album 'Road To Revolution: Live At Milton Keynes' will also include a DVD from the only concert to take place at the Milton Keynes National Bowl this year.

The double-disc set captures the band's June 29, 2008 show during the sold-out European leg of their summer Projekt Revolution tour.

Almost 50,000 people turned out to MK's biggest summer event.

On the day a number of bands performed including drum and base outfit, Pendulum, alt rock band N*E*R*D, rock-ravers, Enter Shikari and US indie band, The Bravery.

However it is only rap superstar Jay-Z that will feature on the CD.

The CD/DVD set highlights a mix of new hits, including latest single 'Leave Out All The Rest,' classic tracks such as 'Breaking The Habit' and 'Crawling' and two special performances – 'Jigga What/Faint' and 'Numb/Encore' – featuring Grammy winning Jay-Z.

'Road To Revolution: Live At Milton Keynes' features hidden bonus tracks and an eye-popping multi-page booklet that includes exclusive, never-before-seen live photos.

Linkin Park co-lead vocalist Chester Bennington said: "Over the course of the past few years, we've played more than 200 Projekt Rev shows to hundreds of thousands of fans, and while each of those gigs has been special, the Milton Keynes show has been one of the most memorable.

"It was one of those nights where the band and audience come together as one, and we wanted to share that experience with the fans that couldn't be there."

It is to be officially released on November 25.

THE CALCUTTTA BRASSERIE

Stony Stratford, Tel 566577

Review by Andy Handley

THE former chapel which converted to a restaurant some 30 years ago may simply be the nicest venue to eat in Milton Keynes.

This grade two listed building has a fantastic ambience with its magnificent wall paintings and high ceilings criss-crossed with old beams.

And with a recent make over and a new menu Calcutta Brasserie lives up to the grandeur of its surroundings.

More than just another Indian restaurant in town the Calcutta brings a mix of dishes from all over the sub continent.

Popping in for lunch my college and I chose to start with fish, myself opting for the Tandoori Jhinga (tiger prawns) from the east coast the prawns char-grilled and at £4.95 good value.

The crab fish cakes (£4.95), that my lunch guest picked, were made from Devonshire crab mixed with roasted with Goan spices and served with a display of finely grated salad.

On to our mains a choice of Nalli Korma (£10.95) was a perfect selection the slow cooked lamb shank blended perfectly with the delicate spices in the Hyderabadi sauce, and by the expression on my friend's face she had not expected such a generous portion.

I went for the traditional south Indian dish of Mutton Mappas (£7.95). This lamb dish is cooked with a green paste made from coconut, chillies and ginger, just beautiful.

A selection of naan bread, stuffed paratha and mushroom rice went well with the meal and a side of the uniquely prepared Karari Bhindi (okra) completed our meal.

The Calcutta Brasserie not only offers a tremendous selection on their a-la-carte menu they also have a banquet eat-as-much-as-you-like menu at £15.95 per head (minimum of two diners).

The opulent surroundings add that little extra to your dining experience and with the restaurant split into two distinctive sections they are able to offer a private room, with its own bar, that holds up to 100 for those special celebrations.

And all this comes with a price that does not bust the bank.

Base Rate Drop Boost Tracker Mortgages

Homeowners are hoping for lower mortgage bills after the Bank of England dramatically cut the base rate to 4.5%.

The Bank of England's decision to reduce interest rates by 0.5% along with central banks around the world will reduce monthly payments for many mortgage customers using variable and base rate tracker products

Now is an ideal time for homeowners and first time buyers to explore the savings they could make by taking out a bank rate tracker mortgage.

One of the UK's largest mortgage brokers, Countrywide Mortgage Services, has access to a range of tracker mortgages available for new Taylors customers and those wishing to remortgage.

These products are available through your local branch of Taylors.

Matt Giggs, Estate Agency Regional Manager said: "The latest range of mortgage schemes are designed to give homeowners a helping hand and boost their affordability in the current climate.

"Lower interest rates combined with reduced house prices makes this an ideal time to get on to the property ladder."

> "The latest range of mortgage schemes are designed to give homeowners a helping hand and boost their affordability in the current climate." -Matt Giggs

Countrywide PLC

Countrywide Mortgage Services has a team of professional Mortgage Consultants on hand to offer advice on the hundreds of mortgage products currently available, and unlike some mortgage brokers, they do not charge a fee for their advice and recommendation service.

To find out more about Countrywide Mortgage Services and the options available to you locally, visit www.mortgagescountrywide.co.uk or contact your local Taylors branch and ask the mortgage consultant about Countrywide's current mortgage offers.

The news coincides with the launch of Help to Buy packs, which offer guidance on the moving process, including information on how to boost your borrowing potential through a variety of schemes that are geared towards helping more buyers and sellers move up the property ladder.

Contact your nearest Taylors branch to arrange an appointment with one of their qualified Mortgage Consultants and see how they could help you.

Why rent when you can buy...

Let's help you buy your property the Affordable Way!

Launched in September 2006, Homes 2 Own UK are specialists in Affordable Home Ownership and provides the new homes sales and marketing service for The Guinness Partnership who provide properties across the UK.

With over 20 years worth of experience of marketing and selling home ownership products, such as New Build HomeBuy. Operating under the single brand name of Homes 2 Own UK means that we can save money across the Partnership - getting discounts on marketing materials and advertising, whilst building up a well known reputation for a good service the Homes 2 Own delivers. Most importantly, Homes 2 Own UK offer a more effective customer service package - offering a responsive service tailored to individual needs, a dedicated telephone number and website and fully trained Sales Team.

Specialists in Home Ownership!

What is New Build HomeBuy?

* NBHB was introduced by the Government to assist people who otherwise would not be able to afford a property.

* New Build HomeBuy is a part-buy/part-rent scheme offering you the opportunity to buy what you can afford now so you don't overstretch yourself financially. It also allows you to increase the stake you own in your newly-built property when you can afford to do so.

* Homes are sold as leasehold properties on shared ownership terms - they can be flats or houses; newly built or occasionally newly refurbished. You can purchase as little as 25% and up to a usual maximum of 75%. You will need to be able raise a mortgage for the share you want to purchase, and you will pay a subsidised rent on the share you don't own. Total monthly payments offer an affordable option to help you on to the property ladder.

* You can buy additional shares at a later date until you own 100%. This is known as 'staircasing'. When you want to sell the property you can sell the share you own through your housing association allowing further households to benefit from low-cost home ownership. The property is resold at market value and you will benefit from any equity which has built up on the share that you own.

What do I need to do to register?

Simply calling our dedicated sales line on 0844 800 20 20. You will then be sent a brief registration form to complete and return.

Once we have received and processed your application to register we will contact you to confirm your eligibility onto the scheme and you will be contacted in regard to suitable properties in your area of choice. Should you wish you can then arrange viewings on properties. If we have nothing suitable immediately we will keep you active on our database and we will contact you once a suitable property becomes available.

H2OUK have a wide range of properties available now and under development across the South East, South West and Midlands, with further properties available through Guinness Northern Counties throughout the North of England so the opportunity of finding a suitable property is ever changing. So, if you or someone you know is looking to buy an affordable property or just want to find out more about the scheme contact us now.

'Elevator' films give firms a lift

ONE of Milton Keynes' largest and most successful PR agencies, Verve Public Relations, has joined forces with leading video maker Colin Barrett of Simply DV to launch 'Elevator Pitches' to help local businesses get their message across.

An 'elevator pitch' is an overview of an idea, product, service, or project.

The name reflects the fact that an 'elevator pitch' can be delivered in the time span of a lift ride; for example, three or four minutes, and must therefore contain the distilled essence of a company's ethics, people, services and offer.

For just £1,000 plus VAT companies can record a short, professional HD film giving their 'elevator pitch' about what they can offer clients.

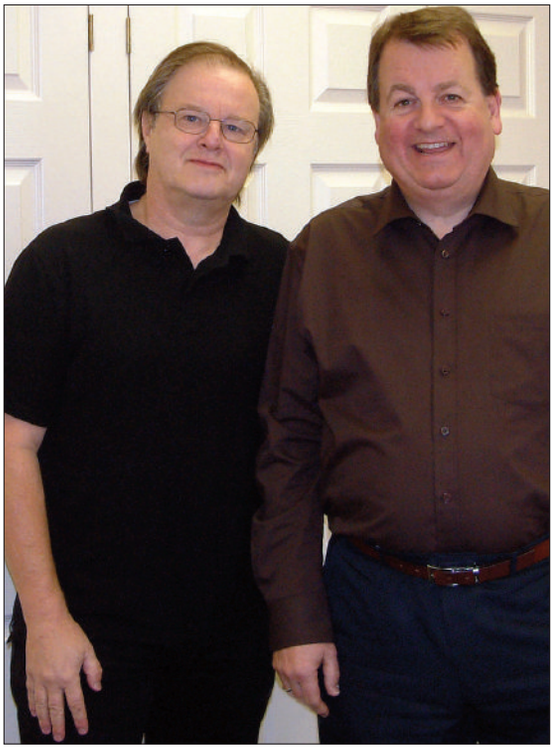
The final edit can then be placed on the company's own website, on social media sites such as YouTube and Google Video and can also be sent as a link by e-mail to prospective clients. In short it's an extremely powerful and impactful promotional tool.

The 'Elevator Pitches' standard service includes client liaison, research, script writing, half-day video shoot in MK, editing, compression for web and uploading to media servers.

Verve MD Theo Chalmers, said; "I met Colin when he filmed and edited a promotional film for Urban Eden, the lobby group I run (www.vimeo.com/1954437). I was so impressed with the way he transformed my script and performance into a professional piece that I came up with the idea of 'Elevator Pitches' for local companies."

Colin came to Milton Keynes in the late 1970s to work as a cameraman/editor with Channel 40, Milton Keynes' ground-breaking community cable TV station. He has worked on projects for several of the UK's major companies including Kodak, Volkswagen, Rover, the Granada group and Alliance & Leicester as well as having been a New Media Projects Manager at the Open University. His website www.simplydv.co.uk is the UK's number one camcorder reviews website which Colin set up and runs.

He's also written three popular books on the subject of digital video in addition to over 400 specialist magazine feature articles on the subject, and regularly delivers training workshops for those new to video-making. A current ongoing assignment is with The British Library in London.



Short and sweet: Colin Barrett and Theo Chalmers

Skills event will encourage MK companies to take the 'pledge'

THE ongoing development of skills within the local workforce is of vital importance to the business community to make sure organisations are fully prepared for the challenges they face in expansion, future development and weathering the current economic storm.

The Milton Keynes Chamber of Commerce, in association with The Department for Innovation, Universities and Skills, is holding an event on Thursday, October 30 at Kents Hill Training and Conference Centre to get local business to take the Skills Pledge. The aim is to facilitate direct communication between business and government to hear first hand about the new and emerging national skills policies.

A senior skills officer from the department will speak about how these policies fit with the economic priorities of the South East region. Key themes that will be covered include:

■ Skills Pledge with a particular focus on the take up of training and development

■ Skills Policies concentrating on employers

■ New and emerging government skills policies

■ Train to Gain – how this initiative can help your business

The event will also feature an question and answer session where members of the local business community will be able to seek clarification about the skills challenge and give feedback to those who can make a real difference.

Businesses will be encouraged to make a pledge to embrace the training and educational opportunities and funding available through various organisations and initiatives to help make their staff their best business asset.

■ To book your place at this event or for more information on Chamber Training opportunities call Catie Luckman on 01908 259008 or email catie.luckman@mk-chamber.co.uk

Two-year quest to design a 'different' RTS experience

GAMES Faction, a British games developer was set up in January 2006 by Lee Hickey and Malcolm Reed - two industry veterans with over 20 years professional experience and a shared passion for making great games.

The pair met when developing games in Milton Keynes and worked together for a number of years before relocating to Northampton to the Portfolio Innovation Centre.

The duo are committed to creating innovative and diverse games for digital distribution and are proud to be a key player in the emerging wave of indie developers.

Over two years in the making with a skeleton crew of just three staff, Project Aftermath has now launched and is a shining example of what a dedicated team can achieve. The game has already received critical acclaim as a winner in the 'PAX10' indie game competition at the Penny Arcade Expo in Seattle and has been selected for distribution on Valve's Steam network.

Project Aftermath is an Arcade RTS game where you command up to four squads of soldiers in exciting battles in a retro-futuristic world. Equip your squads to suit your playing style, researching new items using the spoils of war; choosing from over 100 different weapons, armour, power-up augmentations and spell-like special attacks.

Engage in hectic massed battles against hordes of enemies. Capture strategic locations, rescue hostages and slaughter indiscriminately!

Explore the landscape to locate hidden treasures and uncover the secrets of both your enemy and the mysterious planet you find yourselves on. Replay missions using fewer soldiers and items to earn greater rewards.

Action, mystery, hideous manmachine hybrids; Project Aftermath has it all.

Lee explained: "Project Aftermath has been a risky undertaking as a first title for an independent developer. Our hope is that people will be very excited and perhaps surprised at what a small team can achieve."

Malcolm added: "We are really excited to have launched the game. The PAX10 experience showed us that although Project Aftermath is different to traditional RTS games, gamers get it and are genuinely excited about the new mechanics. We're proud to be doing something a little different."

Save money servicing your car

VW, AUDI, SEAT, SKODA

Our customers come from all over the country because of our good name and personal service where they can speak to the engineer working on their car. Our work is second to none and they still save up to 50% on main dealer prices

Our workshop is not housed behind a flashy reception area where you hand your keys over and your car disappears not to be seen again until you pay your bill.

We run an open workshop where the customer is shown what's wrong with their car and you can discuss the solutions with the engineer.

Our workshop carry's the latest VAG approved equipment including

- VAG approved computer diagnostics
- VAG approved four wheel alignment
- Tyre fitting and computerised balancing
- Air conditioning services
- VAG trained technicians
- Reception with broadband access

We offer a full range of tuning services including engine tuning and track day preparation.

MARTIN Allen admitted it hurt to lose a pulsating encounter to his former club MK Dons.

The Cheltenham boss came back to Milton Keynes with a bang but was sent home empty handed due to Ali Gerba's brace and Sam Baldock's penalty.

This was arguably the best game to have graced stadiummk with two penalties, four goals and two red cards all packed into the ninety minutes.

Dons fans were left to fear the worst when Willy Gueret was dismissed on the half-hour-mark when he did his best impression of a bull to the red flag by barging into Stuart Fleetwood.

Roberto Di Matteo's men were forced to play for an hour with ten men and still managed to add two more goals to their tally.

Despite all the success that has come to the Dons since Allen's departure in 2006 you can't help but think things have been a little quiet in Milton Keynes.

But Mad Dog's return put that right with his on loan striker Fleetwood goading Gueret into a crazy act that led to his dismissal and Allen himself showed plenty of desire for his players to hit the ground running when Ashley Vincent landed at his feet in the dug out following a challenge he was immediately dragged up by his manager and thrown onto the pitch.

Vincent soldiered on in the game even though the awkward landing resulted in a double fracture of the wrist.

By the time the Dons went down to ten men Ali Gerba had netted Scott Brown's parried shot and Gavin Caines' header had the sides on level terms.

Though Dons' assistant Eddie Newton said his side could have done little about the equaliser.

"It was a great delivery," Newton added, "an inswinging free-kick is so hard to deal with. you do your best but if the delivery is right and the run is right it's very hard to defend against. The referee made it quite an eventful afternoon. What we were happy with was that the boys kept their concentrating, they didn't lose their focus on the objectives."

More drama came when Brown pulled off a stunning save to deny Peter Leven a goal from the penalty spot, however, Sam Baldock netted ten minutes after the break when the Dons were awarded their second penalty.

Gerba's second of the afternoon was layed onto him by loanee-Jason Puncheon and demonstrated why Roberto Di Matteo signed the international striker.

Allen said: "Coming back here was special I wanted my team to give everything they've got. They're a decent team, play good football, it's a great stadium to come and play in, I feel let down, disappointed. It hurts."

Lloyd Owusu was sent-off late on for the Robins but they were all ready dead and buried.

TRANMERE
League One
Saturday, November 1
stadiummk KO 3pm

EVERY week the Dons appear to be facing an ex-member of their squad or manager but none will be as popular with the Cowshed as Gareth Edds.

The Aussie is fondly remembered by Dons fans for his last minute strike in the final game of 2004/05, ironically against the side he now plays for Tranmere, which saved the club from relegation.

He was released by the Dons at the end of last season but has landed on his feet by joining Tranmere who are now on course to challenge for a place in the play-offs.

Before their game with Stockport last night Tranmere had won three on the bounce and kept clean sheets in the process, helping them to that record is ex-Dons defender Ben Chorley.

He will be up against Canadian international Ali Gerba who is finding scoring at stadiummk a whole lot of fun.

Gerba has scored four times in his last three home games.

Nathan Abbey is set to continue in goal in place of the suspended Willy Gueret.

THE Dons have picked up at home draw against Bradford City in the first round of the FA Cup.

Last season the Dons secured their League Two title at Bradford's Valley Parade and also came out on top at stadiummk.

Dons will hope their FA Cup run last longer than last term when they were knocked out at the first hurdle by Crewe Alexandra.

The tie will take place at stadiummk on Saturday, November 8. Kick-off is at 3pm

ROBERTO Di Matteo has been busy wheeling and dealing in the loan transfer window.

The Dons boss has brought in two loan signings to his side.

Jason Puncheon, who started his career with Wimbledon and featured for MK Dons, returns to Milton Keynes on a month long loan from Plymouth Argyle.

The winger left the Dons in 2006 and spent two impressive seasons with Barnet before Plymouth spent £250,000 on him in the summer.

Puncheon, 22, is restricted to playing in League One games only.

Joining his at the club is Derby County's goalkeeper Lewis Price.

Price, who has six caps for Wales, has been drafted in for a month to cover while Willy Gueret serves a three match ban.

On Monday Wolves had turned down an approach from the Dons to take their keeper Matt Murray on loan.

DONS under 18s will travel to Coventry Spinks tomorrow (Thursday) for the first round of the FA Youth Cup.

Kick-off at Sphinx Drive is at 7.45pm.

THE Dons have been drawn against Bracknell Town in the Berks and Bucks Senior Cup.

The side will travel to Larges Lane on Tuesday, November 4 to face the Robins in the second round of the competition.

Awaiting the victorious side will be a home tie against Maidenhead United in the quarter finals.

Kick-off against Bracknell is at 7.45pm.

Great Scot to bow out in Brazil

MOTOR RACING

SUNDAY will signify the end of an era when a Formula One great bows out of the sport.

David Coulthard will race one last time at the Brazilian Grand Prix to bring down the curtain on a 15-year career.

The Scotsman is not stepping back from the motorsport all together, he is taking up a role with Red Bull Racing as a team consultant.

And the 37-year-old, who has been the oldest driver on the circuit for the past two years, is also set to be a part time test driver for the Milton Keynes-based team.

"I'll still be involved in it next year, of course, albeit in a different role.

"I will be working with Red Bull, coming to all the races, and driving at tests. The main difference is that on Sunday, I will be sitting and watching the Grands Prix rather than being in the car."

His current team mate Mark Webber is continuing with Red Bull next season alongside Sebastien Vettel who is joining from sister car Toro Rosso.

And the veteran driver rates his replacement, Coulthard said: "I'm going to be as interested as everyone else to see the intra-team competition between Mark and my replacement Sebastian Vettel.

I've already been joking with Mark that I wouldn't like to be in his position, that this guy looks like being trouble for him.

He's clearly got a lot of talent and car control but Mark will have the benefit of experience, both of F1 and of the Red Bull team. I've no idea which way it will end up going."

All eyes will be on the Championship battle between Lewis Hamilton and Felipe Massa but fans of F1 will also be urging Coulthard to finish his season on style.

He currently has eight points in the Drivers' Championship standings while Webber has 21.

COVERAGE of the Brazilian Grand Prix is on ITV1 at 4pm on Sunday.

Coulthard's career in numbers:

- 245 Grand Prixs
- 13 wins
- 62 podiums
- 18 fastest laps
- 12 pole positions
- Best Championship finish is 2nd in 2001
- Scored 535 points
- Driven for 3 teams
- Started on the front row 37 times
- Had 7 team mates

Still up and down for Lightning

MK LIGHTNING 1

BRACKNELL BESS 0
MK LIGHTNING 3

ANOTHER hit and miss weekend saw MK Lightning fall at home to their nearest rivals but recover the next day with a strong win at Bracknell.

Lightning went head to head with Peterborough Phantoms for the first time in the English Premier League this season.

Just like their 'ashes' meeting prior to the competitive season it was the Phantoms that walked away with the bragging rights.

Once more it was a fiercely contested match that could have gone either way but it was Lightning who were left with nothing.

Both sides had chances in a tight first period yet they remained deadlocked until the 31st minute.

Peterborough took advantage of a Lightning penalty to grab the opener through Nathan Rempel and it was a lead they took through to the final period.

When Craig Peakcock was given two minutes for delaying the game Lightning were finally able to strike back.

On the 49th minute Gary Clarke pulled Lightning level and with eleven minutes remaining they were hunting for a winner.

The winning goal came four minutes later, unfortunately for Nick Poole's side it fell to Brent Gough who ensured the points were in the bag for Peterborough.

MK recovered the following day to brush aside Bracknell Bees with a 3-0 win.

It was a resilient, bullish display from Lightning to take two points on their travels.

They had to dig deep for the win as Bracknell held the score at 0-0 at the end of the first but the floodgates opened in the second for Lightning to seal the victory.

First Michael Wales found the net, then James Archer followed suit not long after.

The writing was then on the wall for Bracknell when Andre Smulter made it 3-0 heading into the final session.

Lightning eased off yet the result was never in doubt and it leaves them seventh in the table.

■ LIGHTNING travel to Wightlink Raiders on Saturday, face-off is at 6pm, and on Sunday they host Swindon Wildcats, face-off is at 6pm.

Lions hope fresh legs will see return to winning ways

MK Lions will look to end their run of three games without a win tonight but face a Plymouth Raiders side looking for a third victory in five days.

A rare weekend off for the Lions means they head into the match with the fresher legs but that will count for little if they fail to reproduce the start of season form that saw them win four from six.

And coach Vince Macaulay knows the Raiders have a team packed with danger on the court.

Speaking ahead of the game he said: "As with everyone else in the BBL we know the Raiders have a solid team with some key additions.

"It is always difficult to go to Plymouth and win, what is good is we have some new fresh faces who don't know too much about that, Andrew Lasker and DeAntoine Beasley are always keys for the Raiders because they are so passionate about the club, Gary (Stronach) has a good core of players and they are a tough BBL team.

"But Raiders succeed as a team rather than individuals, collectively they are greater than the individual parts and that is how Gary likes it."

While Macaulay may be prepared for the onslaught of the Riders his opposite number Gary Stronach has also warned his side not to be complacent.

Raiders coach Stronach said: "Lions are a tough team with a mixture of veterans and rookies.

"Their back court is one of the best in the league with Terrell Brown and Yorick Williams in the front court you've got Robert Youngblood and Mike New add their new players and Dru Spinks you can see that they will be challenging for honours this season.

"There's no point singling out an individual player, they can hit you from everywhere."

Bletchley put poor Olney to the sword – again

SOUTH WEST EAST 2 DIVISION

BLETCHLEY repeated their cup success of last week to condemn Olney their fourth defeat of the season.

A week after knocking Olney out of the Intermediate Cup Bletchley earned the spoils with a 22-15 victory.

Olney put their noses in front inside five minutes when Chris Parnham skipped through missed tackles to score near the posts though a missed conversion kept the advantage to 5-0.

Immediately Bletchley, the visitors, hit back from the restart with Adam Griffiths collecting from quick passing to accelerate past three Olney players before offloading to Dagan Probert who crashed over the line.

A successful conversion from Phil Harman handed Bletchley a slender two point lead.

Olney had plenty of possession yet were unable to convert to points and when they were penalised for a dangerous tackle Harman kicked to give Bletchley a 10-5 lead.

A Bletchley knock-on then led to Olney regaining the advantage when they broke off from the scrum for Scott Filler to grab a converted try.

When the visitors were reduced to 14 men they could have let the game slip away instead it spurred them on.

Harman's drop goal briefly put Bletchley ahead until Dave Smith's penalty had the home side leading 15-13.

But it was flyhalf Harman who had the last say in the game with a further two drop goals and a penalty handing Bletchley the win.

SOUTHERN COUNTIES NORTH DIVISION

A LOW scoring victory over first placed Buckingham kept Milton Keynes level on points with the leaders.

MK are one of four teams on ten points in the league, they currently sit in third place due to points difference.

An incredibly tight contest with Buckingham saw MK come out on top with an 8-0 victory.

In their five previous games Buckingham had amassed 215 points but MK proved too good to break down.

Daniel Pearson's first-half try added with Andy White's penalty gave MK the result of the weekend.

Pace-packed Dons prove too nippy for The Orient

BY SIMONE CORGAN

LUKE Chadwick's brilliant pair kept MK Dons in fifth place in the League One table.

The 27-year-old set Leyton Orient's Matchroom alight with two excellent goals in four minutes in a controlling first-half performance from the Dons.

Roberto Di Matteo's men played with freedom and confidence until the dismissal of Shaun Cummings four minutes into the second half forced a new game plan for the Dons.

Adam Boyd's missed penalty proved crucial as Tamika Mkandawire' 90th minute strike could have been the equaliser. Instead it was a late present from the Dons.

Dons packed their side with pace with the combination of Chadwick and Mark Wright almost carved an opening inside the first minute.

Wright had picked up an intelligent ball from Chadwick but O's keeper Glenn Morris collected the cross before Ali Gerba could get his head on the end of it.

The wide options looked good early on especially when Dean Lewington, pressing high from his left back position, dragged a low cross along the O's box but Jude Stirling's knocked wide.

Dons two-goal diamond Luke Chadwick spins after hitting his first goal last night

It took 19 minutes for the Dons to reap the rewards from the dominate start and it was the ever-impressive Luck Chadwick with a beautiful goal.

The winger dazzled as he cut in from the left, his step-overs mesmerised the O's defenders a quick one-two with Peter Leven allowed him space inside the box to slot beyond Morris.

O's seemed certain Chadwick had handled when the ball was played back to him but the build up play on it's own deserved to put the Dons ahead.

Four minutes later Chadwick was on the score sheet again with another world class goal.

At first it looked like Chadwick knew little about his second but a replay showed the former Manchester United midfielder skilfully back heel Wright's drill into the bottom corner.

Orient were not only under pressure from the Dons, who were exposing the gaping hole down the right on a regular basis, as the home support became increasingly frustrated.

When they did get possession the O's tried to feed most of their play to Adam Boyd, though Stirling had him marked.

Between the sticks Derby-loanee Lewis Price remained untested while his opposite number Morris was forced into action due to a number of shot from Jason Puncheon.

The home side's best spell of the half came five minutes before the break when Paul Terry and Boyd linked up well but the former's' cross for Sam Parkin went straight out for a goal-kick.

Price also caught well at the far post before anyone could latch onto Jason Demetriou's delivery.

From the restart Adam Chambers forced an outstretched save from Dons goalie Price, and the O's were then gifted a route back into proceedings when Shaun Cummings concede a penalty for a foul on Boyd.

Cummings as the last defender was subsequently shown a straight red, but Boyd failed to take advantage when he blasted his spot-kick wide.

Orient's one man advantage gave them an added boost and pinned the Dons in their own half for the first time with Danny Granville once again calling Price into action with his long range strike.

But Roberto Di Matteo refused to be negative with his tactics bringing on Luke Howell, Sam Baldock and Jemal Johnson.

And Baldock had a great impact playing a hand in a short free-kick which Peter Leven flashed just wide of the post.

Orient threw everything at the Dons in the final minutes but Mkandawire's consolation from the final kick of the game was too late to rescue the points.
